IDI Annual Report

President's Report

As the year of my Presidency comes to a close I still feel honoured to have been offered the position. That tedious political slogan "A lot done, a lot more to do" springs to mind and I do not plan to disappear off either. During the year of the Presidency many things come clearly into focus and the need for a long term strategy for growth of the IDI looms large in my vision as unfinished business.

2008 has been busy for everyone on the Council of the IDI. There have been many business pressures and we are grateful to everyone who has volunteered their services with the IDI and the initiatives we have been involved with.

It is only when one is made President that the true extent of the IDI's work can be observed. Many activities take place in private and often involve confidential services on behalf of members. Others go unnoticed by large sections of the membership as they may only pertain to a particular section.

I said at my opening address that I wanted to increase the membership of the IDI. This is still the case and I hope to work on a number of initiatives to increase membership. It is only by means of increased membership that we can increase our revenues and volunteers both of which are fundamental in allowing us to provide meaningful events and activities for all.

As you know, the incoming President is Damian Cranney. Many of you will know Damian from his time working in Dublin but for the last number of years he has been principal of Frank in Belfast. This is the first time that the IDI has a President from north of the border and I am delighted with the progress we are making in truly making the IDI an all island body.

It is traditional to talk of the things we have done in the past year in an address such as this. You already know what events took place. Frankly I wish we had been able to hold more events and produce more publications but it has not been for lack of effort. We are working to develop membership, create a strategy document for the IDI, develop Designweek and our links with other organisations, bring the ICOGRADA conference to Dublin and deliver greater value to our members, all of whom's subscriptions are equally valued.

There are numerous people to thank. Firstly our members, without our membership there is no IDI, secondly our sponsors for without them many of the events and initiatives simply could not happen and lastly I would like to thank Rachael Murtagh our Executive Officer as well all my friends and colleagues on Council who have made the year so enjoyable, and yes, fun.

Warm regards

Council Report

Brief History and Statutory Background

The Institute of Designers in Ireland (IDI) is the professional body representing the interests of Irish designers. Its members run the Institute on a voluntary basis with the assistance of an Executive Officer, in full employment. There are three basic organisational units, namely Officers, Council and Committees.

Officers:

The Officers consist of three presidential members (current president, immediate past-president and president-elect), the honorary treasurer, honorary secretary and executive officer. Officers' meetings take place on a monthly basis a week prior to Council meetings. Additional meetings are held when necessary.

Council:

Council consists of the Officers and two representatives (when possible) from each section, elected on an annual basis. Council meets once a month to discuss the Institutes on-going activities and initiatives.

Committees:

A number of Committees are formed to address and implement the Institutes initiatives and policies or to undertake specific tasks.

The IDI is recognised at National, European and International levels as the representative body of the design profession in Ireland.

We welcome members from a broad range of design disciplines. Our Council was originally appointed in 1972 and is subsequently reappointed by our membership for 1-year periods.

Membership of the Institute of Designers is open to all students, graduates and professionals who can satisfy the entry requirements.

Currently there are over 300 members from a wide range of disciplines, including graphic design, product design, interior design, fashion and textile design as well as design management and those involved in design education.

All applicants for Membership of the Institute shall be citizens of Ireland or be resident in Ireland.

To ensure that Membership remains meaningful, the Institute lays down a Code of Professional Conduct, observance of which is a condition of Membership.

Memberships and representatives of:

Design Ireland

- BEDA – Bureau of European Designers Associations
- ECIA – European Council of Interior Architects
- Icograda – International Council of Graphic Design Associations
- ICSID – International Council of Societies of Industrial Design
- IFI – International Federation of Interior Designers
- IIA – Irish Internet Association

Format of Financial Statements

The accounts have been prepared in a format determined by the Companies Act 1963 to 2006 (Republic of Ireland). The base currency of the financial statements is Euro (€).

Books of Account

To ensure that proper books and accounting records are kept in accordance with Section 202 of the Companies Act 1990, the directors have employed appropriately qualified accounting personnel and have maintained appropriate accounts.

Principal Activities

The Institutes principal activities are representing the interests of Irish Designers. Its function is to promote high standards of design, to foster professionalism and to emphasise designers' responsibility to society, to the client and to each other.

Our commitment to inspiration and motivation is evident through our seminars, publications, exhibitions, competitions and our regularly updated website. We aim to encourage, educate and enlighten our members and to secure and maintain recognition for the design profession.
